

About the Horse

In Chinese culture, the Horse is a symbol of nobility, class, speed and perseverance. The Horse is one of China's favorite animals as it provided transportation for people before automobiles. Therefore, the horse is not only a symbol of traveling, but also a sign of speedy success.

The Chinese wouldn't let the Horse do farm work, as they had higher expectation of the Horse.

Sitting on the Horse's back implies that the person is from a noble or a higher ranking family. This sign is endowed with the vivacity, loyalty and the elegance of a thorough bred animal.

The year of the Dog holds the promise of romance for many of us, as the Horse is one of the four "Peach Blossom" animals in Chinese Astrology.

The Peach Blossom is a star of romance and whenever it shows up in a year, there'll be more love relationships than usual. Get ready for your love life to get busy and be swept off your feet! Those already in solid relationships will get deeper with possible commitments on the horizon.

Always in love, proud as a stallion, the Horse's intense strong emotions can overwhelm them when they fall in love. Every time the Horse finds a new partner, there heart and soul goes into the adventure.

For the Horse in the year of the Dog's Feng Shui chart is ruled by the number 4 in the southern location – home to the Horse. The number 4 is a star of romance in the Flying Star Feng Shui system, which means, love, love, and more love is in the air!
